

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for allocating access to a scarce resource. A load of each flow on the resource is calculated. The aggregate load is compared to a maximum steady state load. A drop policy is established responsive to the comparison. The drop policy is applied to the flows at an input interface of the device.

003829.P005